TREASURER FOUND: WORLD PEACE

That's right! KGB has finally found a treasurer to call its own, the one and only Ryan Tosh. To prove his financial commitment to the organization, he has submitted his Social Security Card to us for safekeeping. Having rigorous security standards, KGB has hidden it in a secret location where it can never be stolen. We have also provided a photocopy of the card to the right. Having trained with the United States Air Force, Ryan is ready for whatever task or turmoil the treasurer position may throw at him. You can see him dressed in traditional Air Force armor in the image below, which will keep him safe from any unfortunate circumstances. He will not use his military connections to embezzle taxpayer money into the KGB's bank fund, as that would be irresponsible. Any upcoming money we receive from the Air Force are just charitable gifts and donations. We hope that the results of our long search for a money-manager will satisfy and invigorate both the general body and the world into a state of global peace, which the KGB will use its newfound monetary prowess to promote.
