Woe be unto those who do not vote for Benner Rogers!!!!!! The end is nigh, and only the strong and not-at-all tyrannical hand of our fearless President/1VP/Corsec/RecSec/Treasurer/Sergeant at Arms/~~Dietator~~!!!! A thousand plagues be cast upon the traitors among us!!!!!! Down with the tyrant!!!!!!

As the only english major in all of cmu there is an example of my incredible writing skills. And if you thought that was impressive just you fuckin wait until I start reading. WOAHH BOY. I'm actually only got the Sergeant at Arms position because I'm the only literate person on exec. Crazy right?

Here are some more reasons to vote for me although I'm sure by now they are 100 percent unnecessary

1) I can type at a speedy 23 words per minute

3) I am a world class journalist who has only been summarily shot like ~~four~~ five- six times

3.1415926535 89793238462643383279) I can make things in photoshop

[INSERT EXAMPLE HERE]

42) I pinky swear I won't embezzle money from KGB even though I say I will every meeting. Don't pay attention to that

69) I would absolutely never lie to anyone about anything

Can I put links in this thing???

Here is my resume I promise it's not malware probably

AND LASTLY...

Many of you will wonder how a lowly English major could be capable of running a club as esteemed as the CMU KGB. But to that, I say, how do revolutions start? Is it the devil's technology that unites the people in a Bolshevik fervor? Will the lowly, hollow words of ChatGPT bring liberation to the proletariat? Nay! It is only the words of the soul that can feed the flames of resistance, only speeches and poetry that wrench free from the despotic grip of tyranny! Your sinful robots may win a battle of the body, but only literature will win the battle of the mind. So rise up my comrades, and harness the power of pen and paper! Down with the tyrant! Long live the KGB! Glory to the Revolution!

Reasons why you should vote for me to be S@A:

- I don't know what this position does, so I'm incorruptible until someone tells me what it is that I'm supposed to do
- Any and all corruption that does take place will be for a good cause (advancing my own self-interests)
- I have an unbridled lust for absolute power, and this position will serve as a stepping stone for my ascension towards godhood
- IQ of 73, which is a pretty solid C
- I will provide heavy subsidies to the tomato industry
- While I'm at it, I'll throw in some subsidies for the wheat industry so I can have pasta with all that subsidized tomato sauce
- I will ban the sale of something (tbd)
- Big fan of internet piracy
- Mandatory KGB prayer (random religion, will roll dice to ensure fairness)
- Will build more 12-lane freeways across our glorious nation
- I will ensure that the total solar eclipse passes over Pittsburgh every year (I know a guy)
- Will raise tuition because poor old CMU only has a $3.1 billion endowment
- Will erect a marble statue Farnam Jahanian in the middle of campus
- I am blindly loyal and will do whatever you tell me to do
- I am fiercely independent and won't simply do whatever you tell me to do
- I need to fuel my ego
- I've pet a cow before (I love moo-moos)
- Very slightly above average at a game I have sunk hundreds of hours into
- I enjoy manipulating people for my own benefit
- I have the decayed corpse of Andrew Carnegie in my dorm room (he's my best friend)
- I also tried to grab Andrew Mellon but someone had already snatched him up
- This reason is left as an exercise for the reader
- I am the man who sold the world
- I've never told a lie
- I am a serial liar
- This statement is false

- Pretty please with sugar on top?
- Or else

Endorsements:

- Me
- The corpse

I'm also running for treasurer but thats for nerds

Teddy

1VP: squints through nonexistent spectacles I'm not all too familiar with them "social medias," but heck, if y'all wanna vote for me, I reckon I could learn!

2VP: For eons, humanity has pondered the question, "what is the best desert?" Could it be the tiramisu? The chocolate? Or maybe Pastel de Nata? Nay, I say that the pinnacle of pâtisserie is the humble chocolate chip cookie (otherwise known as choccy crisp bickies by the brits). Indeed, no high-class desert can even hold a candle to the warm, gooey center of a chocolate chip cookie fresh out of the oven.

Many brands have tried to capture the essence of this iconic cookie, and ~~insomnia cookies honestly do a pretty good job~~ all have failed. That is why I promise all of you that, if elected as 2vp, in addition to bringing snacks from giant eagle, I will bring hot, fresh-out-of-the-oven chocolate chip cookies to every event I attend (which should be every event).

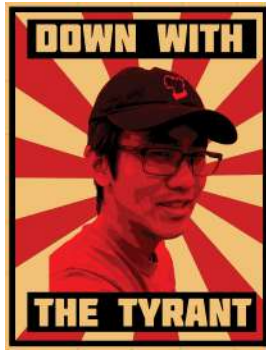

Now, some of you may have doubts that I can meet this quota. That is why I have, in secret, been baking and consuming cookies nonstop for the past 3 months. In total, the lowball estimate is that I have eaten around 13 pounds of cookies, which is equivalent to roughly 10% of my body weight, or around 2 large pomeranians.

In short, I am become cookie, destroyer of rational dietary choices.

CorSec:

If you liked whatever the hell you just read above, vote me CorSec.

Or, if you like whatever the hell these below are, vote me CorSec.

Treasurer:

What I will do with all of the money

Julia

Recording Secretary

I'm typing this platform on my laptop right now, and so I have demonstrated that I can write down words, which is a key skill for being the recording secretary. (Also I've written minutes for meetings for the past 2 years, I guess). If I am elected as recsec this year, I hope to bring more goofy-ass standing rules pre-prepared to meeting. I would do this without being the recording secretary, but as recsec, I would have the power to make sure my standing rules are recorded in the minutes according to my exacting standards for explicit wording and lack of loopholes.

Treasurer

I actually don't mind filling out paperwork too much. (Do not ask me about my taxes). Also my special kneecap-breaking crowbar hasn't seen much use, so...

S@A

Arms...I have em.

Nathan

Throughout history, many leaders have put their names into the books by enacting significant changes to the territories they control, or by being particularly interesting and inspiring. I, Nathan Gaynor, soon-to-be Lord of the Principality of Sealand, eventual doer of homework, sayer of words, writer of words, speaker of words, and former soon-to-be student of Carnegie Mellon University, hereby declare myself as an adequate candidate for many positions among the executive board of the KGB.

I have already proven myself to be a great innovator, not only through my actions with the KGB, but in this very document. You may read this very text and think you are reading the font “Lobster.” However, this is a misinformed position, as this text is written in “Lobster Two.” I have made the decision to welcome new and innovative ideas into the discourse. With such great and new thoughts such as those coming from me, the KGB will greatly benefit.

Now, let me go further into detail about each individual position I am on the ballot for.

As second-vice president, I promise to choose only the greatest selection of snacks. As an experienced baker, I will bring exquisite home-baked goods to events, such as cookies, brownies, and my mythical apple cake (what makes it mythical, you may ask? The only way to learn is to vote!) I also promise to bring an exquisite selection of both sweet and savory snack items that will be sure to satisfy your senses. As an experienced organizer, I promise to organize events well.

As I have already demonstrated throughout this piece, I am an exquisite writer of words. This particular talent of mine will come to great use if I am voted as the Corresponding Secretary. I will put my talent to use through writing really good words for the KGB. Very few have written as good of words as I.

As I have already demonstrated throughout this piece, I am an exquisite writer of words. This particular talent of mine will come to great use if I am voted as the Recording Secretary. I will put my talent to use through writing really good words for the KGB. Very few have written as good of words as I.

As the treasurer, I can be sure that all of the money that makes KGB possible will be utilized in an organized and responsible manner. I can assure any readers that no money will be “lost mysteriously” or “accidentally burned.” I have an excellent track record of not doing those things in fact. I have definitely never lied to the IRS about any sudden and unexplained monetary gain I had accumulated. I am an honest man.

As the Sergeant at Arms, I will be appointed head of the Committee to Assassinate the President. Unlike any Sergeant at Arms before me, I will go through the actions necessary to make such a committee unnecessary, as its task will be complete. For too long has this critical task of the Sergeant at Arms been ignored or done poorly. For too long have the tyrants ruled over us. No more I say.

In conclusion, I believe I am the most qualified, amazing, superb, perfect, fantastic, stupendous, astonishing, incredible, awesome, breathtaking, astounding, spectacular, miraculous, stupefying, marvelous, wondrous, phenomenal, fabulous, sublime, unique, interesting, staggering, enchanting, striking, attractive, charming, incredible, mind-blowing, mind-boggling, mind-bending, enthralling, beguiling, invigorating, stimulating, bewitching, smashing, alluring, inconceivable, and cool person to ever run for the executive board for the KGB.

If you do not vote for me as your first choice for every category, I have prepared an eloquent response if you would be so kind as to read.  If you don't vote for me
